ON REPORT OF THE PROPERTY AND THE

I told you before 't was a stormy night When these two kittens began to fight, The old woman seized her sweeping broom And swept the two kittens out of the room. The ground was covered with frost and snow,

And the two little kittens had nowhere to go, So they laid them down on the mat at the door. While the old woman finished sweeping the floor.

Then they crept in as quiet as mice, All wet with snow and cold as ice, For they found it was better that stormy night To lie down and sleep than to quarrel and fight

HUMOROUS.

A Boys Idea of Flies.

We know that most of our readers are just now about vexed to death-therefore we publish this excellent opinion of some thoughtful boy on Flize.

The poor boy must have lived near a onehorse grocery store, as he blows off in the following lamentable manner, and says:

"I hate a fli.

A fli is got no manners. He's an introoder, don't send in no kard nor ax an interduckshun, nor don't knok at the front door, and nuver, nuver thinx uv takin off his hat.

Fust thing you know he is in bed with you and up your nose-tho what he wants thar is n mistry-and he invites himself to breakfast and sets down in your butter, thout breshin his pants. He helps hisself to sugar, and meat, and melassis, and bred, and presurves, and vinnegy-ennything, and don't wait fur no invitashun. He's got a good appytite, and jist as soon cat one thing as anuther.

Taint no use to challenge him for takin liberties; he keeps up a hostile kerrispondence with you, whether or not, and shoot hisself at you like a bullit and nuver misses, nuver. He'll kiss yure wife 20 times a day, and zizz and zso, and ridicule you if you say a word, and he'd ruther you'd slap at him than not, coz he's a dodger of the dodgirnist kine. Every time you slap, you don't slap him, but slaps yoself, and he gints the hine leg uv skorn at you, till he aggrevates you to distrackshin. He glories in a lighten every pop on the ixackt spot whar you druv him from, which proves the intenshun to teeze you. Dont tell me he aint got no mind; he knows what he is after. He's got sense and too much uv it, tho he never went to skool a day in his life

His mother never paddled him with a slipper in her life. His morals wuz niglecktid, and he lacks a good deal uv humility mitely. He aint bashful a bit, and I doubts if he blushes ofting.

In fack, he was nuver fotched up at tall. He wuz born full grown, and he don't git old-uther things gits old, but he nuver gits old-and he is imperdent and mischevus to the day of his deth He droopz in cold weather, and you kin smash him on a winder pain, and you've jest to put yure finger in it. He cums agin next yeer, and a heep more with him. 'Tain't no

Ef that ain't the flosify uv flize, I give it up. Altho' a fli don't send his kard, he always leaves one, and I don't like it. 'Tain't pretty ef 'tis round. He kan't make a cross mark, only a dot, and he is always a dottin' whar thar ain't no i's. Thar's no end to his periods, but he nuver comes to a full stop. Such hand'ritin' is disagreabil.

He's an artiss, but his fresheo and his wall paperin' I don't admire. Thar's too much sameness in his patterns. His spees is the only spees that don't help the eyes. You kan't see throo 'em and you don't want tu. I hate a fli. Durn a fli."

- A country girl once went into the city to pay a visit to one of her old and best friends; this friend was married to a rich city merchant, and a leader of fashion. In city etiquette, of course, the visitor was verdant, and made numerous mistakes. Her friend wished to initiate her into the "mysteries," and as they were going to a large ball, gave her the fol lowing instructions, viz: "Eat only one small cake and one saucer of ice cream, and when your attendant presses you to take more answer that you have masticated a sufficiency. and more would be a superfluity." Things went on very smoothly until her attendant asked her to partake of more refreshments, when, to the horror of her friend, and amusement of the company, she answered, in a loud voice: "I have evaporated insufficently-any more would go flippity floppity."

- In England, the following dialogue actually took place, a short time since, between a visiting examiner and a pupil in a school near Salisbury:

"Now, then the first boy of the grammer First boy-"Here I be zir."

Examiner—"Well, my good boy, can you tell me what vowels are?" First boy-"Vowls, sir? Ees, of course I Examiner-"Tell me, then; what are vow-First boy-"Vowels, sir? Why, vowls be chickens!"

- While trudging along one day, all alone, a rebel soldier met a preacher, and at once recognized him as such, but affected ignorance

Preacher-"What command do you belong

Soldier-"I belong to the Fourth Texas Regiment, Van Dorn's army. What army do you belong to?" Preacher (very solemnly.)-"I belong to the army of the Lord."

Soldier-"My friend, you've got a very long way from headquarters!' - Little three year old Mary was playing very rough with the kitten-carrying it by the tail. Her mother told her she would hurt pussy. 'Why, no I won't said she, I am carrying it by the handle."

PREPARATION OF COMPOUND

EXTRACT BUCHU.

The component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAF. CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.

Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distilla-tion, to form a fine gin. Cubebs extracted by dis placement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small pro-portion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

portion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu, as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle), leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates; the smallest quantity of the other inversedients are added to revent fermentaration precommittee; the single strainty of the ringredients are added, to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopæa, nor is it a Surup—and therefore can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation. Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation,
With a feeling of confidence,
I am, very respectfully,
